

MarketsandMarkets: Patient Monitoring Devices Markets in Brazil, Russia, India and China Worth $2,992 Million by 2015

Bio-Medicine.Org

DALLAS, July 14, 2010 /PRNewswire/ -- According to a new market research report, 'Patient Monitoring Devices - Emerging Markets BRIC (Brazil, Russia, India and China) 2010-2015, published by MarketsandMarkets (<http://www.marketsandmarkets.com> [1]), the BRIC patient monitoring market is expected to be worth $2,992 million by 2015, with China accounting for nearly 62.9% of the total revenues.

Browse in-depth TOC on Patient Monitoring Market. Early buyers will receive 10% customization of reports

<http://www.marketsandmarkets.com/Market-Reports/Emerging-Markets-243.html>
[2]

This market research report categorizes the BRIC patient monitor devices market as per their usage in emergency rooms, critical care units, and intensive care units. The devices analyzed are patient monitors, vital signs monitors, fetal monitors, anesthesia monitors, neonatal monitors, and central station monitors. The major players in the overall market include Philips Healthcare, Netherlands, Schiller AG, Switzerland, Mindray Medical International Ltd.,

SOURCE [3]

Source URL (retrieved on 01/31/2015 - 11:52pm):

<http://www.mdtmag.com/news/2010/07/marketsandmarkets-patient-monitoring-devices-markets-brazil-russia-india-and-china-worth-2992-million-2015>

Links:

[1] <http://www.marketsandmarkets.com>

[2] <http://www.marketsandmarkets.com/Market-Reports/Emerging-Markets-243.html>

[3] <http://www.bio-medicine.org/medicine-technology-1/MarketsandMarkets-3A-Patient-Monitoring-Devices-Markets-in-Brazil--Russia--India-and-China-Worth--242-992-Million-by-2015-9739-1/>