

Kelyniam Global buys Conn. manufacturing firm

Mass High Tech: The Journal of New England Technology

Kelyniam Global Inc. (OTC: KLYG), a medical device manufacturing firm in Canton, Conn., is buying Cranston Holdings LLC, in a deal that is expected to add stereolithography and rapid prototyping expertise to Kelyniam.

Terms of the acquisition, per a news release from Kelyniam today, include an equity trade for assets and revenues [1] of Florida-based Cranston Holdings, which had 2010 revenue of about $600,000. Cranston Holdings has proprietary software, linked to ISO compliance, that Kelyniam president and CEO James Ketner said would become part of Kelyniam's intellectual property portfolio.

SOURCE [2]

Source URL (retrieved on 01/29/2015 - 5:45am):

http://www.mdtmag.com/news/2011/06/kelyniam-global-buys-conn-manufacturing-firm?qt-recent_content=0

Links:

[1] <http://www.kelyniam.com/kelyniam-acquires-cranston-holdings-llc/>

[2] <http://www.masshightech.com/stories/2011/06/20/daily38-Kelyniam-Global-buys-Conn-manufacturing-firm.html>