SHENZHEN, China, June 27, 2011 /PRNewswire-Asia/ -- Shenzhen Wuzhou Changlian International Trading Co., a leading online distributor specializing in health care electronics & medical equipment, announces its new arrivals of exercise equipment and health care electronics, which have become the indispensable parts for people to easily develop good habits and keep healthy in daily life.

To cater to those patients or people who feel unwell, the company supplies a series of digital or infrared thermometers [1], helpful and portable. A digital or infrared thermometer [1] can provide accurate temperature readings, especially the nice affordable infrared model: it can display reliable temperature readings in seconds, through easy forehead scanning, which can save precious time and hassle for the elderly and babies. Those portable products like thermometers, blood pressure monitors [1] or glucose monitors are also quite suitable for travellers. Because of the degree of adjustability, people may get a fever or catch a cold in the journey, and the health care products are specially needed to deliver more focused and dedicated care. To facilitate users, products are all available in mini size, portable and light. Besides, to offer more convenient methods for people to exercise, Wuzhou Changlian specially introduced a series of heart beat watches [1], timer-meters, and massage equipment. As for timer-meters, they are widely used to set time for cooking, studying, beauty, soup, printing down, traffic, sports, talk, experiment, meeting and so on, and are especially helpful for those patients to recover with the proper amount of exercise. While massagers are necessary electronics for people with little time to exercise, at home they can enjoy a high-class massage experience and get refreshment.
