

SWIFT MRI Teases Out Jawbone Cancer

Diagnostic Imaging

A magnetic resonance imaging technique called SWIFT (sweep imaging with Fourier transform) can help detect oral cancer in the jawbone, according to a report in the September issue of Archives of Otolaryngology-Head and Neck Surgery, a JAMA/Archives journal.

SOURCE [1]

Source URL (retrieved on 01/28/2015 - 12:26pm):

http://www.mdtmag.com/news/2011/09/swift-mri-teases-out-jawbone-cancer?qt-video\_of\_the\_day=0

Links:

[1] <http://www.diagnosticimaging.com/mri/content/article/113619/1953727?CID=rss>