

Cleveland HeartLab pulls in $15M | Wall Street Beat

Mass Device

Cleveland HeartLab raises nearly $15 million for its CardioMPO test for cardiac inflammation.

Cleveland HeartLab [1] pulled in $14.7 million in equity financing for its proprietary test for cardiac inflammation, according to a regulatory filing.

The CardioMPO test was developed by Dr. Stanley Hazen, director of the Cleveland Clinic's center for cardiovascular diagnostics and prevention.

Cleveland HeartLab closed a $3 million round in 2010, with backers including Glengary and Second Generation Ltd.

Source URL (retrieved on 01/26/2015 - 12:50pm):

http://www.mdtmag.com/news/2012/11/cleveland-heartlab-pulls-15m-wall-street-beat?qt-recent_content=0

Links:

[1] <http://www.massdevice.com/company/cleveland-heartlab-llc>