

Medivo Appoints Dr. David B. Nash to Its Medical Advisory Board

The Associated Press

NEW YORK--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Nov 15, 2012--Medivo Inc., a health monitoring company for physicians and their patients, today announced that it has appointed David B. Nash, M.D., MBA, to its Medical Advisory Board, which was established in 2010 to provide strategic advice and counsel in the areas of health information technology (HIT), patient care and product development.

“We are very excited to welcome Dr. Nash to our Medical Advisory Board,” said Dr. Jason Bhan, EVP and Co-Founder of Medivo. “Bringing more than 25 years of academia, research and healthcare expertise, we anticipate that he will be a vital member of our passionate group of healthcare leaders. This group is central to helping Medivo propel our mission forward—to provide easier access to quality healthcare.” Dr. Nash is the Founding Dean of the Jefferson School of Population Health (JSPH) in Philadelphia and is nationally recognized for his research leadership in health outcomes management and quality-of-care improvement initiatives. Most recently, Dr. Nash received the Joseph Wharton Award for Social Impact, presented by the University of Pennsylvania’s Wharton School. Dr. Mehmet Oz, a Wharton graduate and a 2011 award winner for Social Impact, presented the award to Dr. Nash. Also receiving the Joseph Wharton Awards in 2012 were Leonard Lauder, chairman emeritus of Estee Lauder, and Brian Roberts, chairman and CEO of Comcast.

Dr. Nash is the Dr. Raymond C. and Doris N. Grandon Professor of Health Policy. Repeatedly named to Modern Healthcare’s list of Most Powerful Persons in Healthcare, his national activities cover a wide scope. He served as Chair of a National Quality Forum Technical Advisory Panel and is a member of the Board of Directors of The Care Continuum Alliance (formerly DMAA). Dr. Nash is a principal faculty member for quality of care programming for the American College of Physician Executives in Tampa, Florida, and is the developer of the ACPE Capstone Course on Quality. He also leads the academic joint venture between ACPE and the JSPH.

Dr. Nash is a consultant to organizations in both the public and private sectors. He has chaired the Technical Advisory Group of the Pennsylvania Health Care Cost Containment Council for more than a decade and he is widely recognized as a pioneer in public reporting of outcomes. He is currently on the Board of Directors for Humana Inc., one of the nation’s largest publicly traded healthcare companies; Endo Health Solutions, a publicly traded pharmaceutical company; and Main Line Health, a four hospital system in suburban Philadelphia, PA.

Through publications, public appearances, his blog and an online column on MedPage Today, entitled “ Focus on Policy ”, Dr. Nash reaches more than 100,000 persons every month. He has authored more than 100 articles in major journals. He has edited 22 books, including Connecting with the New Healthcare Consumer, The Quality Solution, Practicing Medicine in the 21st Century, Governance for Healthcare Providers Population Health: Creating a Culture of Wellness, and most recently, Demand Better. Currently, he is Editor-in-Chief of five major national journals including American Journal of Medical Quality, Population Health Management, P&T, Biotechnology Healthcare, and American Health and Drug Benefits.

Medivo Appoints Dr. David B. Nash to Its Medical Advisory Board

Published on Medical Design Technology (<http://www.mdtmag.com>)

"I am pleased and excited about this opportunity to become part of the medical advisory board at Medivo," Dr. Nash said. "This is one of the leading companies today in developing innovative tools for helping physicians track patients between visits and helping provide the needed follow-up that leads to improved patient care." About Medivo's Medical Advisory Board Medivo established its Medical Advisory Board in 2010 to provide strategic advice and counsel in the areas of health information technology (HIT), patient care and product development. Members who currently comprise the board are: Ted Eytan, M.D., a family physician who is known for his work in the area of patient-centered health information technology; George Lundberg, M.D., former Editor-in-Chief of JAMA and Medscape, currently Editor at Large for MedPage Today and Editor-in-Chief of CollabRx, and widely regarded as a pioneer of Internet medicine; Philip Marshall, MD, MPH, a respected healthcare technology expert and collaborative video technology entrepreneur; and Dr. Roshini Raj, M.D., an author and medical contributor to NBC's Today Show. About Medivo Headquartered in New York City, Medivo is a health monitoring company dedicated to helping save and improve lives through faster and easier access to quality healthcare. The Medivo platform collects clinical data from labs and symptom data from apps and devices to help physicians provide better care and help their patients more effectively monitor their health. Medivo enables patients to better manage their health and have more meaningful interactions with their doctors through access to testing and mobile symptom monitoring tools, easy-to-understand explanations of lab results, and relevant condition-specific information. Medivo raised $7M in Series A funding in 2011 led by Safeguard Scientifics, Inc. (NYSE:SFE). For more information, visit our website at www.medivo.com, follow us on Twitter @ gomedivo or Like Us on Facebook.

CONTACT: Gregory FCA Matt McLoughlin, 610-228-2123 Matt@GregoryFCA.com

KEYWORD: UNITED STATES NORTH AMERICA NEW YORK INDUSTRY KEYWORD: TECHNOLOGY DATA MANAGEMENT SOFTWARE PRACTICE MANAGEMENT HEALTH MEDICAL DEVICES PHARMACEUTICAL RESEARCH SCIENCE GENERAL HEALTH

SOURCE: Medivo Inc. Copyright Business Wire 2012 PUB: 11/15/2012 10:00 AM/DISC: 11/15/2012 10:00 AM

<http://www.businesswire.com/news/home/20121115005592/>

Source URL (retrieved on 07/03/2015 - 6:09pm):

<http://www.mdtmag.com/news/2012/11/medivo-appoints-dr-david-b-nash-its-medical-advisory-board>