

WorldRad.com, an International Subsidiary of USARAD.com, Partners with European Teleradiology Firm Direct Diagnostic Alliance

The Associated Press

MT. LAUREL, N.J.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Nov 23, 2012--USARAD.com announces a Joint Venture between its international subsidiary WorldRad.com division and Direct Diagnostic Alliance headquartered in Barcelona, Spain. The Joint Commission-accredited USARAD.com U.S. board-certified American Board Certified radiologists will join forces with DDA's highly qualified radiologists in a full range of radiology sub-specialties to expand services in Europe (including Scandinavia and Russia), the Middle East and Africa.

DDA is the leading telemedicine service provider in Europe and offers high quality sub-specialty radiology interpretations with a rapidly increasing panel of sub-specialty radiologists. DDA offers a full range of advanced services, including PET/CT, neuroradiology, musculoskeletal, cardiac, breast, oncological, abdominal, thoracic and coronary CTA imaging.

WorldRad.com will assist DDA teleradiology group in maintaining its commitment to exam turnaround in 30 minutes or less for emergency cases and 4 hours for standard reads, while upholding a commitment to the highest standards of care.

A partnership based on a shared commitment to advanced technology, both WorldRad.com and DDA are supported by sophisticated proprietary digital image management and communications infrastructures that speed images in high diagnostic quality across the globe if needed to support ultra-fast, high quality exam reading. Both practices also offer a full range of imaging technology solutions to clients to facilitate state-of-the-art reciprocal communications of images and reports.

Michael Yuz, MD, MBA, CEO of USARAD.com and WorldRad.com comments, "Although often equipped with advanced imaging technology, many areas of Africa, the Middle East and even parts of Europe are suffering from a shortage of radiologists qualified to read today's advanced imaging exams. In partnership with WorldRad.com, DDA can offer reading by highly trained radiologists in locations around the world for 24/7 service." Martin Leger, DDA's Managing Director, comments, "Our mission is to work with imaging centers and hospitals in Europe, Africa and the Middle East to ensure that patients in underserved regions receive the advanced medical care they deserve. We have created a strong infrastructure of both human talent and technology to support these goals. Today, we are pleased and proud to have WorldRad.com join with us to further these goals and look forward to a long relationship with the company." "Together, Direct Diagnostic Alliance and WorldRad.com make that service a reality," adds Dr. Yuz. He also points out that for many hospitals and medical practices, teleradiology can provide a cost-effective, efficient solution keeping them up to date with the latest imaging techniques and technologies for the benefit of their patients. Both companies will also offer value-added services to their clients such as radiology second opinions.
