

Surgical robot maker Medrobotics lands $33.6M in Series D

Mass Device

Massachusetts medical robotics company Medrobotics raises nearly $37 million to support regulatory submissions and potential commercial launch in the next year.

Surgical robotics company Medrobotics raised $33.6 million in Series D round of funding from new and existing investors, according to a company statement.

The Raynham, Mass.-based medical device maker, originally known as Cardiorobotics, plans to use the proceeds to prepare regulatory submissions and prepare for commercial launch in the U.S. and Europe, which it expects may begin next year.

Source URL (retrieved on 02/01/2015 - 2:14pm):

http://www.mdtmag.com/news/2012/12/surgical-robot-maker-medrobotics-lands-336m-series-d?qt-recent_content=0&qt-most_popular=0