centers as customers, and five of the top 10 pediatric cardiac hospitals.

- CASMED spent more than 17% of net sales on R&D in 2012, principally for the development of its next-generation FORE-SIGHT product, a new non-invasive blood pressure technology and an updated vital signs monitor. Each of those products is expected to be launched early in the second half of 2013.
- The number of scientific publications regarding the use of FORE-SIGHT oximetry exceeded 200 early in 2012, with dozens of abstracts, posters and papers published throughout the year. A few of the key studies showed:

 - The utility of FORE-SIGHT's new algorithm with the ability to monitor the gut of newborns without the typical interference from meconium.

Management Commentary

"We are pleased with the progress we made in 2012 toward returning our Company to growth, which we achieved with a 9% gain in net sales in the second half of the year, while remaking our product offering to provide leading-edge and cost-effective monitoring solutions," commented Thomas M. Patton, President and Chief Executive Officer of CASMED. "We exceeded our goal of delivering 40% domestic FORE-SIGHT sensor sales growth in 2012 while we continued to upgrade our distribution, penetrate key hospital institutions and build upon the body of clinical evidence in support of FORE-SIGHT.

"Dangerous oxygen desaturation in cerebral tissue is an unrecognized yet common occurrence during and after surgical procedures," continued Mr. Patton, "and our FORE-SIGHT oximeter provides unparalleled accuracy to guide clinicians in their care of patients. As awareness of these benefits grows, we look forward to the opportunity to increase market share and to expand the market for cerebral oximetry. Also, with new products in each of our major product lines expected to be released early in the second half of the year, we continue to build our foundation for future growth."

Mr. Patton added, "We expect FORE-SIGHT sales increases for 2013 to exceed our 23% gain for 2012. We plan to provide more specific sales guidance for the year in early May, when we report our first quarter financial results, as we should have more information on the timing of the launch of our new products at that time."
