Encision drops hard following death of CEO

Mass Device

Colorado medical device maker Encision announces the death of CEO Fred Perner, 59, who passed away from a heart attack last week; Wall Street sends ECIA shares down 17%.

Encision Inc. [1] (PINK:ECIA [2]) CEO Fred Perner died suddenly last week at the age of 59 from an apparent heart attack, the company announced this week. He had been at the helm of the Boulder, Colo.-based surgical devices company since 2011 and had spent more than 30 years in the healthcare industry.

"Fred's leadership, energy, and vision that he dedicated to helping save patients' lives will be severely missed," executive chairman Dr. Pat Pace said in prepared remarks. "Fred had a vast knowledge of the medical device field, as well as friends and colleagues across the healthcare universe who were always eager to work with him. Our thoughts and prayers are with his wife and children."
