

Polymer Development Services

Foster's Applied Polymer Development group offers custom polymer and process development services, unrelated to material purchased, to companies in the medical market. The company has been a dedicated material supplier to the medical market, where critical applications such as catheters and balloons consume relatively small quantities of material. It has designed its operations to effectively and economically serve such applications, both with material and development support.

Source URL (retrieved on 01/31/2015 - 2:59pm):

<http://www.mdtmag.com/product-releases/2004/08/polymer-development-services>