

Manufacturing Rx: Partnerships Add Developmental Strength

Medical device manufacturers can maximize innovation and business investments by partnering with companies who share a parent entity. Such supplier partnerships can help solve problems and speed products to market. Product design and packaging are two areas that illustrate the benefits of these relationships.