

Certificate Programs

UC Irvine Extension has enhanced its Medical Product Development and Clinical Trials certificate programs, opening access for biomedical professionals nationwide and internationally to participate through a new online element. The added e-learning option is in response to the growing academic needs of the largely populated Orange County biotechnology and biomedical community as well as professionals nationwide seeking the latest industry knowledge from the convenience of their home or work office. UC Irvine Extension allows professionals to maintain a competitive edge on a variety of issues ranging from gaining FDA approval on new medicines to leveraging new technologies and developing medical products to help diagnose complex diseases. Information: www.unex.uci.edu.
